PEARL:

A Novel

On Christmas night, 1998, Maria Meyers—a liberal, energetic single mother—receives a call from the State Department, letting her know that Pearl, her only daughter, who is studying abroad at Trinity College, has chained herself to the flagpole outside the American Embassy in Dublin and has not eaten in six weeks—something to do with the Irish Troubles. And so a mother is forced to ask the question: Why, in a world of sorrow and injustice, should we choose to live at all? 7-city tour: New York City

THE BROKER

With fourteen years left on a twenty-year sentence, notorious Washington power-broker Joel Backman receives a surprise pardon from a lame-duck President. He is smuggled out of the country on a military cargo plane, given a new identity, and tucked away in a small town in Italy. But Backman has serious enemies from his past. As the CIA watches him closely, the question is not whether he will be killed, but rather who will kill him first. MI & VA

MOTHER'S HANDBOOK:
A Novel

A year in the lives of a grandmother, mother, and daughter living under one roof in a working-class town in northern England. The story unfolds in the women's three very different voices as they react to the news that seventeen-year-old Charlotte is pregnant—ruining her chances for a life beyond their small village and repeating the same mistake her own mother made when she was Charlotte's age. England

Richard McCann
MOTHER OF SORROWS

Ten extraordinarily lyrical, psychologically penetrating portraits of an American family living in the post-war suburbs of Washington D.C. The first stories, set in the 1950s and 1960s, evoke a world of tract houses, fallout shelters, and sunstruck treeless houses. In stories chronicling his youth, the narrator looks back at a world he has attempted to flee in order to understand the forces that have shaped him. 4-city tour: Washington, D.C.

LIBERATION ROAD:

A Novel of World War II and the Red Ball Express

In the seven-month struggle following D-Day, the Allied forces faced an enemy nearly as deadly as the Axis: lack of supplies for the American lines as they swept west, pushing the Germans out of France. Thus was formed the Red Ball Express, the lifeline which fed the Allied effort to end the bloodbath of World War II. Overwhelmingly manned by African-American troops, the soldiers of the Red Ball Express were a unique band of combatants. Richmond, VA

Amy Krouse Rosenthal

ENCYCLOPEDIA OF AN ORDINARY LIFE

A most unusual and wonderful book: a memoir in the form of an encyclopedia, a kind of miscellany for the human condition, beautifully, poignantly, and often quite humorously written by a young writer and NPR contributor. A unique view of life at the end of the 20th and beginning of the 21st century. This collection of entries organized from Amy to Ziggy muses on the stuff of daily life, both trivial and essential, with a wonderful narrative thread that presents a full and rich sense of one woman's life. NPR. 6-city tour: Chicago

M. Sasek

THIS IS IRELAND

Originally published in 1964, a colorful, spirited, and unique tour of Ireland via the deft paintbrush strokes and witty voice of master illustrator and storyteller M. Sasek. Brings the emerald isle to life for the entire family—where the shamrock grows and a leprechaun stands at the end of every rainbow guarding a crock of gold. M. Sasek was born in 1916 in Prague and died in 1980.

M. Sasek

THIS IS VENICE

Originally published in 1961, here are indelible impressions of romantic, watery Venice, where under a brilliant blue sky, Sasek the gondolier navigates the winding canals to visit the famous landmarks—Piazza San Marco, Doges Palace, and the Palazzo Grassi.

These two gloriously illustrated classics from M. Sasek's beloved and bestselling children's series retain their retro feel, but include updated facts for the 21st century. Enormous appeal. M. Sasek was born in 1916 in Prague and died in 1980.
